

BorrowIt

Process Quark XPress files in network

BorrowIt will greatly improve usage of QuarkXPress over a network. When you open a file from a server or connected computer, it is automatically copied to your local hard drive which frees up the network and speeds up saving. The original document and all related images are locked so that they cannot be edited while you are working on the file.

BorrowIt wil also protect your network and local files. With BorrowIt, you are always working with a copy of your file. When the file is returned, BorrowIt first creates a temporary file to ensure that the save is ok. If you experience a crash or your file is damaged, all you loose is the change made since the file was last opened.
