

ex Lines&Frames

automatically apply column lines and individual lines for all sides of a box exLines & Frames offers the ability to apply column lines in multicolumn boxes. Lines and their attributes are automatically redrawn after text box moving/resizing. Exact alignment of the ascender, x-height, cap-height and frame can be defined as also width and color. Another feature is the possibility to create a frame with single lines which may have different colors, width and corners. The XTension positions the lines optionally inside, outside or straddles the text box. In the version 2.62 you are also be able to create 3D shadows with the ex Lines&Frames XT.
