Checks documents for too small or too large font sizes

This XTension checks documents for too small or too large font sizes before saving or output. In the preferences the user can define a default, a minimum and a maximum value for font size and horizontal and vertical scale. When saving, printing, EPS-saving or collecting for output the document is checked according to the preferences. If a font used in the document has a bigger or smaller size as defined, its size automatically will be replaced with the default. More parameters can be implemented depending on customers specifications.
