

ex Headlines

Auto format headlines and save them in sets.

ex HeadLines automatically creates headlines and is especially helpful for users who continuously use many different headline styles in a publication or print material. This XTension produces a headline stylesheet, centrally stored in a preference file to be accessed by any user. In the style sheets you define font, font size and style for the byline, main headline and subline. The styles are similar to the XPress style sheets and can be accessed from a small palette with a preview window. The box for the headline on the layout is automatically adjusted in height.
