easily reformat entire publications, define characterbased stylesheets

This XTension lets you save stylesheets with the same name, but in different formats in a central preference file. Each set can be used for the same unformatted text to be multiply formatted by mouseclick. As for instance 3 different layouts for one TV program where the information is the same. The entire document is newly formatted for each layout type. The stylesheets are character based. The preference file can be kept on a central server so that all workstations have access to the same preferences.
