Labeling of placed graphics

The Nametag XTension automatically labels all of the placed graphics in a QuarkXPress document. This makes it easy to identify which graphic files are used in any area of a document. The labels are placed in QuarkXPress text boxes on, above or below the graphics in the document, and the user may specify the font and size of the text which identifies the graphics.

Nametag labels are made of standard QuarkXPress text boxes, so they are fully printable. The labels can be manually deleted before final output of the document. The XTension also includes a label removal feature that quickly strips the Nametag labels back out of the QuarkXPress document.
